"THE DICTATOR" IS AT COLISEUM LAST TIME

Wallace Reid scored an artistic triumph in his latest Paramount picture, "The Dictator," which was portrayed with considerable success at the Coliseum theatre last night. The scenes of the photoplay are located in Latin-America and deal with a revolution in which Mr. Reid as the hero takes an active and not inglorious part, rising from stoker to commander and winning the heart of an excellent young woman.

The picture was admirably produced and the cast generally is of the best. It is a picture that does credit to James Cruze, the director, and all concerned. There isn't a dull moment in the picture and it is well worth seeing.

For genuine thrills, excitement and laughs, there are few pictures seen here this season that will equal "The Dictator." From start to finish the action is rapid and produced on a massive scale, with superb characterizations and splendid photography, this picture deserves the success that attended its premiere here.

Wallace Reid is adequately supported by Lila Lee as leading woman, Theodore Kosloff, Alan Hale, Kalla Pasha and other sterling players. It is a delightful photoplay in every respect, the story dealing with love and revolution in Latin-America.

This feature is on for the final times tonight.

"ISLE OF LOST SHIPS" BIG HIT AT PALACE

Milton Sills, one of the most popular motion picture leading men, plays the part of an escaped convict in "The Isle of Lost Ships."

The manner in which a man, sentenced to die in the electric chair on a charge of murder, is cleared of all suspicion in the center of the Atlantic ocean, is dramatically portrayed in this feature at the Palace tonight and tomorrow.

The man, a former naval officer, has been arrested in Central America by a New York detective. While they were returning to the United States they were shipwrecked, the only other survivor being a young and beautiful society girl. For months they are held prisoners in the treacherous Saragasso Sea, and when they escape from it by means of a submarine they are picked up by a torpedo boat destroyer.

On this vessel the accused man finds a newspaper account of the confession of the guilty man, and the detective is forced to release him. However, he plays a practical joke on the naval officer and the girl, to whom love has come during their perilous adventures, by handcuffing them together and throwing the key overboard.

W. Beach is the character of an old salt appears in a prologue and sings a bass solo, "Asleep in the Deep." He made a big hit last night as did the feature.

"THE GREEN GODDESS" AT COLISEUM TOMORROW

George Arliss in "The Green Goddess" is the highly attractive offering of the Coliseum Theatre Thursday and Friday. Mr. Arliss, as is well known, is one of the most distinguished actors of this generation and also one of the very few who can draw patrons to a theatre on his name alone. "The Green Goddess," by William Archer, is doubtless the best play ever written for Mr. Arliss and this is saying a great deal when one takes into consideration the "Dishabit" of Louis N. Parker.

For two solid years "The Green Goddess" attracted thousands to the Booth theatre in New York, outdistancing all but several plays during the greatest and most prodigious season in Metropolitan theatrical history. The photoplay has had a record-breaking run at the Sam H. Harris theatre, New York, equalling in every way its popularity as a stage play.

"The Green Goddess" is hailed as the greatest art achievement of the screen to date. For sheer compelling melodrama, superbly acted, and magnificently set, it is said that nothing has ever been done to approach this production.

The distinctive Pictures Corporation, producers of the screen version, has assembled an imposing list of luminaries including Alice Joyce, David Powell, Harry T. Morey, Jetta Goudal, Ivan Simpson and William Worthington.

"MAN AND WOMAN" OPENS AT PALACE FRIDAY

Patrons of the screen in America are unacquainted with the name of Tatjana Irah which appears in the cast of Chas. A. Logue's production, "Man and Woman," in which Miss Irah plays the part of a derelict named "The Duchess." Not so the European public, however, as she has a tremendous following in Russia, France, Denmark, Sweden, the Balkan States and South America, where she is as well known as "our Mary" is to us.

This beautiful European star makes her first appearance in America in "Man and Woman," assuming the role of a careless lady of May fair who travels the paths of beach comers along with other human wrecks in Tahiti. The part is the most important of the supporting roles but some of the critics affirm that she has handled it so intelligently that it stands as the most superb hit of artistry in the entire picture.

"Man and Woman" opens at the Palace on Friday.

"THE TIMBER QUEEN" SERIAL HAS OPENING

The first episode of "The Timber Queen" starring Ruth Roland was shown last night at the Coliseum and will be on again tonight. This episode indicates a highly interesting picture with scenes laid in various parts of the country, all out-of-doors. Two villains showed up in the first episode which is three interesting reels. Ruth Roland ends this episode, a top of a runaway box car going down a mountainside.

MOB JUSTICE IS DECLINING

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 13.

That lynching is gradually being overcome in the South is indicated by a steady reduction in such crimes in Tennessee during the last few years, according to a report on this subject made by James D. Burton, Secretary for the Commission on Inter-Racial Cooperation.

Mob justice is shown to be on the decline both as to the number of victims and the area in which such crimes occur, the report sets forth. For a period of 23 years, from 1900 to 1923, 73 lynchings have been reported in Tennessee. Twelve counties had two-thirds of this total, 24 others had one each, and 60 counties had none, says the report.

Tennessee had five lynchings during the last five years, the report added, two in 1922 and none last year.

COMMENT VERY FAVORABLE ON DAVIS' SPEECH

"either by injunction or by any other device" of the rights of labor to organize and to bargain collectively for "an adequate wage earned under healthful conditions."

Protection From Human Greed
The protection of women and children from human greed and unequal laws.

Prevention of child labor and suppression of the illicit traffic in soul destroying drugs.

"Grateful care" to the "veterans of our wars, especially to those who were stricken and wounded in the country's service and whose confidence has been so cruelly and corruptly abused."

Finally, Mr. Davis said he entered the campaign free from pledge or promise to any man and would "hold it so to the end."

Also he declared that when it became necessary to raise funds for the conduct of the campaign they would be contributed "with this understanding and this only: that neither the Democratic party nor I as its leader have any favors for sale."

Expressing in general terms his approval of the proposals contained in the platform adopted by the convention which nominated him, the candidate said he could NOT be expected at this moment to discuss them in detail or to outline the methods by which they are to be carried into effect.

"There will be time enough for that," he said.

Record of G. O. P.

Much of his address was given over to a measured attack upon the record of the Republican party during the past four years. Recounting what he termed "the multiplied scandals of these melancholy years," Mr. Davis assailed the Executive branch of government for "hurried efforts to suppress testimony, to discourage witnesses, to spy upon investigators and, finally, by trumped up indictment to frighten and deter" the investigators from their pursuit.

He charged that in the enactment of the present tariff law there was "an unblinking return to the wall days of rewarding party sup-

Democratic Delegates Shook

GOLDEN

Ernie Golden, Musical Director, Finds Visitors Full of Sentiment

No delegates to the Democratic Convention were heard to admit that New York was too speedy for them, but according to Ernie Golden, director of the orchestra at the famous McAlpin Hotel, they had at least to have their dances slowed up!

"It was the strangest thing," Mr. Golden relates, "but I received hundreds of requests to slow down the tempo of the music. I was playing at the rate New Yorkers demand, which is a pretty good clip, and the floors were covered during most of two weeks with convention visitors."

"They applauded more heartily than New Yorkers, but I noticed that some of them dropped out before the dances were over, almost as if they were winded. To this minute I don't know whether that was it, or whether it was just that they thought more sentiment could be expressed by slow music."

"When I asked them what was the matter, they said they were used to pieces like 'Maytime' which really gives the dancer time to be graceful. When I played 'Maytime' they were perfectly happy and, believe me, put on some wonderful exhibitions of dilatory dancing, which had any New York flapper I ever saw, beaten a mile."

port and political contributions with legislative favors." Also he charged inability of the administration to function due to disagreement between the President and the Republican majority in Congress to agree on public questions.

World Court

Declaring that it was NOT in domestic matters alone that "the symptoms of this creeping paralysis" have appeared Mr. Davis said that NOT only have Executive recommendations for adherence to the World Court been "flouted and ignored," but NO evidence is in sight that the Republican party as now constituted can frame and carry to its conclusion any definite and consistent foreign policy.

"With the reconstruction of Europe weighing heavily on the world," he said, "with American economic life dwarfed and stunted by the interruption of world commerce; with the agricultural regions of the West sinking into bankruptcy because of the loss of their foreign markets; we have stood by as powerless spectators, offering to the world nothing but private charity and individual advice."

Moving from his attack on the opposition to a discussion of other issues, Mr. Davis saved to the last of his utterances on the subject which was the basis of a bitter fight in the New York Convention—religious freedom. Without referring by name to any organizations, the nominee said he wished to "denounce bigotry, intolerance and race prejudice as alien to the spirit of America" and promised that when elected, he would "set up NO standard of religious faith or racial origin" as a qualification for any of the thousands of offices he would be called upon to fill.

Tariff and Farmer

For the aid of the farmer, Mr. Davis said the Democrats proposed to see to it that the discriminations which the tariff makes against him shall be removed; that this government by doing its share toward a European settlement shall help to revive and enlarge his foreign markets; that the forces of government shall be put actively to work to lend assistance to endeavors for extending the principles of cooperative marketing; that when widespread distress has overtaken him, every power which the government enjoys under the Constitution shall be exerted in his aid.

"He is entitled, too, to demand an adequate service of transportation at reasonable rates," the candidate said. "In spite of the failures and shortcomings of existing laws, this is an ideal which I can NOT believe to be beyond the reach of attainment."

Turning to the field of foreign affairs, Mr. Davis told his audience that the Democratic party favored the World Court "in sincerity and NOT merely for campaign purposes" regarding it as a real advance toward the peaceful settlement of international disputes.

League of Nations

As to the League of Nations, the candidate declared that "we do NOT and can NOT accept the doctrine unauthorized by any expression of popular will that the League of Nations is a closed incident as far as we are concerned." Adding that at no time had he believed "that the entrance of America into the League could occur, would occur or should occur until the common judgment of the American people was ready for the step," he said he was "extremely confident" that a day would come when the vote of public approval would find means to make itself heard."

Promising that if he became President of the United States America would sit as "an equal among equals" whenever she sits at all at international gatherings, Mr. Davis said he could NOT reconcile it with his ideas of the dignity of a great nation to be represented at such gatherings only "under the poor pretense of 'unofficial observers.'"

BLARNEY STONE AGAIN LURES VISITORS AFTER WAR SECLUSION

BLARNEY, Ireland, Aug. 13—Scores of Americans are now being dangled daily by the heels over the parapet of the castle to kiss the Blarney stone.

Tourist traffic is again on an organized basis for the first time since the opening of the great war, and southern Ireland is much cheered by the arrival of visitors on every ship from America.

Early in June steamers in the trans-Atlantic traffic resumed stops at Queenstown, which is no longer Queenstown. That name was given to it after a visit of Queen Victoria and with the revival of Irish independence the old Gaelic name of Cobh has been resumed by the Irish.

Historic Blarney Castle suffered no damage in the struggles for Irish independence which followed the close of the great war.
